

Château Puy Servain

BERGERAC | SOUTH WEST, FRANCE

The Bergerac wine-growing region is a subregion of South West France in the Dordogne department. Like all the best wine regions, Bergerac combines all the right conditions for great vineyards. The warmth of the Aquitaine and the temperate climate of the Dordogne River; the hillsides and plateaus, which provide maximum sunshine and perfect drainage; the poor quality rocky limestone soils that force the vines to work harder. All these factors produce wines with wonderful flavors and aromas.

In Bergerac, wine making is 2,000 years old; and it's the many generations of vine-growers that have cultivated the process into an art. Today, vine-growers combine the legacy of tradition with the most recent innovations in oenology. Great effort has been put into improving the quality and the techniques used during the grape-harvest, wine-making, maturing and bottling at the property using the latest natural processes.

DESIGNATION

BERGERAC ROSÉ | BERGERAC, FRANCE

VARIETY

70 % Cabernet Sauvignon, 30% Merlot

VINEYARD

From a 6 hectare, sustainably-farmed, hill top parcel planted in diverse clay-limestone soils. The vines enjoy particularly favorable sunshine, well-drained soils and an expression of minerality imparted by the soils.

PROCESS

Hand-harvested, carefully sorted and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel tanks at below 18°C to retain freshness.

TASTING

A deliciously refreshing dry rosé showing great balance between fruit and acidity. The aromas and flavors reveal precise and expressive notes of red berries and floral fragrance. Finishes clean and minerally. Fresh, fruity and expressive.

WINERY

Château Puy-Servain, located high in the Montravel and Bergerac appellations, is owned by Daniel Hecquet— one of the regions best and most innovative winemakers. Daniel is an accomplished oenologist, having honed his skills while working at Château d'Yquem and Chateau Figec before returning home to Puy-Servain.
